Lynn Van Luven
Canadian Association of Journalists
for September Board Meeting

1 September 1995

Dear Lynn,

Sorry - one last point. Someone once told me you need a focus. The following statement is the one I would like brought before your board.

> Because journalists have been willing to pass on unsubstantiated damaging statements, without evidentiary reason, due process, or an opportunity to respond, simply because they were made by physicians, ongoing horrific preventable abuse, by physicians and other caregivers, of persons whose central nervous system dysfunction is caused by environmental sensitivities continues.

It's long, but it was a fifteen year project. I believe that each of the links, including the cause and effect relationship between reporting the abuse and bringing it to an end, can be substantiated. I would appreciate the opportunity to defend this thesis before any group considering it.

Sincere thanks,

Chris Brown
